Kept to Tennessee.

A warrant has been sworn out against Allen Dade, the negro who shot Lee Radford, also colored, at Beverly, last Saturday night. Confederate Dead Honored.

Yesterday was the Decoration Day of the Confederate Veterans. The Bivouac formed at Mayson's Hall at 2:30 in the afternoon and headed a procession of carriages to the cemetery, where after some simple ceremonies the graves of the Confederate dead were strewn with flowers. The stock was invoiced at $30,000, and appraised at two-thirds of its value, $20,000. The orders of the court are now awaited to see what disposition will be made of the stock. An early decision in the matter is expected, and it is believed that some one will buy the stock as a whole and work it off where it now is. Mr. J. H. Kugler, late owner of the Racket Store, has announced his business plans for the future, but there is a generally expressed desire that he may be able to resume business in this city.

CHATTEN-WALLER.

A Most Notable Society Event Wednesday Afternoon.

The wedding of Miss Lillie Crawford Waller to Dr. Edward A. Chatten, Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, was an affair of exceptional brilliancy. The handsome parlors and dining room in the spacious residence of Mr. Jas. H. Anderson, at 603 South Main street, the bride's home, were elegantly and elaborately decorated with evergreens, ferns and flowers. The dining room, in which the ceremony was performed, was decorated with ferns in which were entwined a profusion of white lilies, appropriate to the bride's name. The handsome chandelier was converted into a marriage bell of lilies, under which the couple stood.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. C. H. Nash, of the Baptist church, in his usual impressive and polished style. About fifty or more relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties were present by invitation, and the congratulations and expressions of good will were general and heartfelt.

There were no attendants, the bride and groom being preceded by the four ushers, Messrs. Lewis Waller, John Waller, William Trice and Stephen Trice, Jr.

After the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Chatten took the 5:13 train for Nashville to visit the Centennial, after which they will return to Earlinton and go to housekeeping on Main street.

Dr. Chatten is a prominent and highly esteemed physician, in the prime of mature manhood. He was a widower, and has two children by his former marriage.

The bride is a representative of one of Hopkinsville's best families. She is a graduate of Bethel Female College and is a young lady of the highest accomplishments, especially in music, which she has made a study for some years. She was elegantly attired in a handsome traveling dress that was very becoming.

EDHEM PASHA'S HISTORY.

The Turkish Commander Is of Christian Parentage.

But, Like Most Renegades, He Has
Degenerated into a Violent
Muslim and a Fanatic
Catholic Priest.

Edhem Pasha, the Turkish commander, has an interesting history. He is not only of Greek origin, but also of Christian parentage, though now he is an enthusiastic and fanatic Mohammedan and a loyal subject of the present sultan.

He was born on the beautiful island of Chio, in the Aegean sea. This island was famous in ancient history, and is said to have been the birthplace of Homer. It is seven miles from the coast of Asia Minor and is situated in the Gulf of Smyrna. It is known for its great productivity, mild climate and natural beauty.

For centuries Chio has been under Turkish rule, although the largest part of its population is of Greek descent. In the many wars and insurrections for Greek liberty the people of this island have always borne the brunt of Turkish cruelty and tyranny. This was especially true in 1822, when the Greeks began a long struggle for freedom. Edhem Pasha was then a small child. The inhabitants of Chio did not participate in the insurrections which occurred in that year, but were following the lead of the body of revolutionists came from the island of Samos and landed in Chio. They endeavored to excite the inhabitants to revolt, but met with no success. The Chioites answered that it would be foolish for them to revolt, because the absence of a Greek fleet rendered them almost certain prey to the Turkish troops on the mainland. The Samians, however, persisted and laid siege to the citadel, then occupied by a Turkish garrison. The Turkish soldiers were driven out and the fortress reduced to ashes. Soon

"That was the sum I named."
"You say that Mr. Beddington has not eloped, Mr. er-er-Brewster?"
"Certainly not."
"Then the Genius of Liberty made a misstatement in saying that she did."
"Not a misstatement, sir, merely, but it did her a most cruel injustice, for which exemplary damages must be had."

"Well, Mr. Brewster, I can't agree to pay $10,000 damages, for subscriptions have come in but slowly and there is no job printing to speak of, but I will make it right in another way, sir."
"It will scarcely be worth while to suggest any other settlement, but I will listen to your offer, nevertheless."
"Well, it's this. The Genius of Liberty says she eloped. You say she didn't. Now, to make the matter correct as it stands in the paper, I will agree to elope with her. What do you say to that?"

This did not appear to be satisfactory and the lawyer left the office to return suit.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

VICTOR HUGO AS A POET.
Qualities Which Make the Voice of This Popular Author.

There is in Hugo's first work an indication of that tendency toward grandeur which is so apparent later, and his way of expressing his genius with that of Corneille. From his early youth he had a high opinion of the poet's calling, and he likened it somewhat to that of the preacher in the pulpit; both the poet and the preacher are to enlighten mankind. Throughout his whole career Hugo acted according to this theory, and in spirit of want of judgment and of tact on many occasions he certainly gave useful lessons to his countrymen and to humanity. For 60 years he was the champion of many noble causes and he deserved the unbounded popularity which he enjoyed in his old age.

His principal trait was his imagination, his creative power. He saw something in nature, or in a man's heart, and he reproduced what he had seen, greatly enlarged by his extraordinary imagination, but correct in the main points. This faculty of his accounts for many of his actions which appear to us grotesque and unnatural, especially in his dramas and his novels, but we should remember that a statue of heroic size often gives us an exact image of a man. We like to read in Hugo of things grand and sublime, and we see also verses of exquisite delicacy and tenderness. The latter especially are to be found in "Les Femmes d'Alton" (1831).—Prof. Alex. Fortier, D. L., in Chattanooga.

Soldiers Carry Spades.
A battalion of infantry carries 150 picks, 150 shovels, 10 spades, 55 axes, 50 bill hooks, and 4 crowbars. An engineer company has 130 picks, 130 shovels, 6 spades, 81 axes, 18 hand-saws, 4 crescent saws, 40 bill hooks, 13 crowbars, and 2 heavy hammers.
—When a woman cries in telling how unkind her husband is to her, all the other women present are expected to cry with her.—Atchison Globe.

AN EFFORT TO COMPROMISE.

But the Plaintiff's Lawyer Didn't Like the Terms.

"A gentleman wishes to see you, sir," and the note office boy to the editor of the Quohosh Genius of Liberty.

"Does he look like a poet or a book agent, or a bill collector?"

"No, sir."

"Show him in."

On entering the caller said: "I believe I have the honor of addressing the editor of the Quohosh Genius of Liberty?"

"You have, sir."

"Your name is Cathcart, I understand.—Benjamin Franklin Cathcart?"

"It is. Will you be seated?"

"Thank you, I will. Mr. Cathcart, my name is Brewster—Littleton Coke Brewster."

"I am an attorney-at-law."

"Y-e-s," said the editor, nervously, for lawyers are the only class of men editors are afraid of.

"You published in your newspaper the other day a statement that a certain Mrs. Beddington had eloped with a certain Mr. Redfield. You probably recall the paragraph."

"Well?"

"There was no such elopement, Mr. Cathcart. In publishing the statement, however, you have injured the reputation and character of Mrs. Beddington, and she has retained me for the purpose of seeing that reparation is made her. She places the damages at the nominal sum of $10,000, with a complete denial of the statement to be published in the Genius of Liberty, with an ample apology, to be published at the same time. Will you agree to these terms, sir, and pay over the $10,000, or shall I begin an action at law?"

"Ten thousand!" gasped the editor, in the same tone he might have used if he had been asked to float a government loan of ten times as many millions.

"That was the sum I named."

"You say that Mr. Beddington has not eloped, Mr. er-er-Brewster?"

"Certainly not."

"Then the Genius of Liberty made a misstatement in saying that she did."

"Not a misstatement, sir, merely, but it did her a most cruel injustice, for which exemplary damages must be had."

"Well, Mr. Brewster, I can't agree to pay $10,000 damages, for subscriptions have come in but slowly and there is no job printing to speak of, but I will make it right in another way, sir."

"It will scarcely be worth while to suggest any other settlement, but I will listen to your offer, nevertheless."

"Well, it's this. The Genius of Liberty says she eloped. You say she didn't. Now, to make the matter correct as it stands in the paper, I will agree to elope with her. What do you say to that?"

This did not appear to be satisfactory and the lawyer left the office to return suit.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

VICTOR HUGO AS A POET.
Qualities Which Make the Voice of This Popular Author.

There is in Hugo's first work an indication of that tendency toward grandeur which is so apparent later, and his way of expressing his genius with that of Corneille. From his early youth he had a high opinion of the poet's calling, and he likened it somewhat to that of the preacher in the pulpit; both the poet and the preacher are to enlighten mankind. Throughout his whole career Hugo acted according to this theory, and in spirit of want of judgment and of tact on many occasions he certainly gave useful lessons to his countrymen and to humanity. For 60 years he was the champion of many noble causes and he deserved the unbounded popularity which he enjoyed in his old age.

His principal trait was his imagination, his creative power. He saw something in nature, or in a man's heart, and he reproduced what he had seen, greatly enlarged by his extraordinary imagination, but correct in the main points. This faculty of his accounts for many of his actions which appear to us grotesque and unnatural, especially in his dramas and his novels, but we should remember that a statue of heroic size often gives us an exact image of a man. We like to read in Hugo of things grand and sublime, and we see also verses of exquisite delicacy and tenderness. The latter especially are to be found in "Les Femmes d'Alton" (1831).—Prof. Alex. Fortier, D. L., in Chattanooga.

FATHER OF THE HOUSE.

One of the Names Borne by the Late W. S. Holman.

The Indiana Congressman Who Died Recently Had a Reputation Throughout the Country as the "Great Objector."

Representative Holman, of Indiana, who died at Washington on the 22d of April, after an illness of several weeks, had just entered upon his 16th term as a congressman from the Indiana district, having served longer in the house than any other man. He had been for years a central figure in congress. He was given the nickname of "The Objector" and "Watchdog of the Treasury," because of his vigilance. He was the "father of the house" on the democratic side, and well liked by everybody. June 16, 1852, the date when Mr. and Mrs. Holman celebrated their golden wedding, at their home in Aurora, Ind., was made the occasion of something of a jubilee by their friends. Mrs. Holman died a little more than a year ago, since which time the aged statesman's health had been steadily failing.

William Steele Holman's public life began the year he became of age. Born at a pioneer homestead called Veracast, in Dearborn county, Ind., September 6, 1822, he became a judge of the probate court in 1843, and continued as such until 1848. He then received a common school education, followed by two years at Franklin college, Indiana, and had studied and practiced law. After leaving the bench he was elected prosecuting attorney, and filled the position from 1847 to 1849. He was a member of the convention of 1850 which framed the present constitution of the state of Indiana, then a member of the state legislature. He was next elected judge of the court of common pleas of the district embracing his county, and occupied the bench from 1853 to 1856. His congressional career began with his election to the house of representatives in 1858. With three exceptions he has been elected to that body biennially ever since.

One of these exceptions was in 1864, when he was defeated for the nomination because of his war record, and war democrats were just then under a cloud. The other two exceptions were in 1876 and 1878. In those years his county was part of the "Burnt district," the old George W. Julian district, a district in which, it was said, Satan would have been st. Peter had stood on the democratic platform. The annexation of Judge Holman's county to this district was the only way in which his enemies could drive him out of congress. But their success was only temporary. In 1880 Judge Holman was returned to congress, and with the exception of one term he remained a member ever since. Throughout the whole of this period Judge Holman was one of the most efficient and trusted of his colleagues. His vigorous, independent, sagacity and fearlessness proved a power of strength to his party and to the country in many a fierce political battle. His name became synonymous with the watchwords "economy and frugality" in government expenditures. To him more than to any other individual legislator are the American people indebted for the upbuilding and perfection of the homestead system, which proved a blessing to settlers and a mainstay for the opening and quickening of the great west. Probably, also, no other member of congress has been so thoroughly versed in all the statutes of the United States, or so familiar with the circumstances of their enactment and the effects of their operation. He was particularly master of all questions, great and small, connected with our public domain, Indians, and with the various modifications of the land service. He married Miss Abigail Knapp while he was studying law in 1842.

The World's Largest Plant.
It is believed that the largest plant in the world is the gigantic seaweed, the neracery, which frequently attains the height of 300 feet. The stem is as strong as an ordinary rope, and large quantities are dried and used as such by people of the South Sea Islands. As soon as a plant takes root, a pear-shaped balloon is formed which grows with the plant. This balloon is made of a material of six or more feet. It keeps the stem growing upward until soon it floats upon the surface of the water. The weed sometimes grows in such quantities as to impede navigation. The ropes are used for building purposes, and the balloons make serviceable vessels.

Billiard Hall for Women.
A billiard hall for women is being built in St. Louis. One of the features of the structure will be devoted to a school of instruction, where novices may receive instructions from an expert teacher. The proprietor will expend $10,000 in fitting up the hall. The new club will be unique in this country, there being but one billiard parlor for women in the world—in Vienna, Austria.

The Evansville Courier is in the hands of a receiver and the goldbugs are trying to get hold of it.

Judge W. H. Post declined to accept that gorgeous landscape shown within by the followers of Watterson. He told them to let Elison have it.

The Glasgow Times is to drop its weekly form and come out twice a week after this week. It will be published on Mondays and Thursdays.

Rev. S. E. Smith, the Owenboro preacher politician of color, lost out in his contest for minister to Hays. Another colored statesman got it.

Special Commissioner W. J. Calhoun has returned from Cuba and his report in the Ruiz case will sustain that of Gen. Lee.

The Hardin Star was in mourning this week on account of the death of Mr. R. W. Starks, father of Editor L. C. Starks, from a self-inflicted wound.

Durant, who was to have been executed in California to-day, may not be executed until his case is passed upon by the Supreme Court. He may be also a year from now.

Mr. J. W. Campbell, Secretary of the Middleborough Bryan Club during the recent campaign, has become editor of the Middleborough Herald and will make it a staunch Democratic organ.

The Paducah Register antagonizes Capt. W. J. Stone's gubernatorial aspirations because Lyon county went out of the district and instructed for Yeaman in 1896 and for Shackelford in 1897.

A convention of the Ohio Valley Bimetallist clubs of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky will be held at Cincinnati June 22 and 23. Gen. A. J. Wesson, Hon. H. F. Bartine, Hon. Chas. A. Towne and other advocates of financial independence of national legislation will be on hand.

President McKinley has offered the Spanish mission to Gen. Jacob D. Cox, ex-Governor of Ohio and formerly Secretary of the Interior. Gen. Cox is 69 years old and in the event he declines, the place will be offered to Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, of New York.

The indictments against Hunter and Franks are still pending and the cases have been continued until the next term of the Franklin circuit court. It now remains to be seen whether McKinley will appoint them to positions of trust while under indictment.

The national silver Republican party was organized at Chicago this week with 32 States represented. Men of national reputation like Teller, Stewart, Mantle, Dubois, Pettigrew, Hartman, Towne and others were the leading spirits. Ex-Congressman Towne is the Chairman of the national committee.

The pressure being brought to bear upon Mr. Jas. K. Forbes, by men of all parties, to make the race for county judge on the Democratic ticket is so great that it is believed he will consent to become a candidate. There is wide spread dissatisfaction with the Republican nominee in his own party and many Republican leaders, white and colored, openly declare they will not support him. Mr. Forbes is a man of extensive acquaintance and great popularity and if elected would give the county just such an administration as it so badly needs at this time.

McKINLEY'S PROMISED PROSPERITY

The New York Journal sent out special correspondents last week to search for Gen. Prosperity, so long waited for in vain. Following are some of the reports:

At Pittsburgh many idle factories were found and 8200 men were on a strike on account of a cut of ten per cent. in their wages. Their employer sent his men to Canton last fall to hear McKinley promise prosperity that has never come.

At New Brunswick, N. J., nearly all of the thirty odd factories were either shut down or running on short time. At Milltown, a suburb, the rubber works, the town's great industry employing 600 hands, was shut down and starvation was staring the idle workmen in the face.

At Lambertville, N. J., the railroad shops of the Pennsylvania line were only running 45 hours a week. The shops employ 250 men. When the notice reducing the hours was posted, a Republican carpenter named Sam' Curry snatched his McKinley button from his coat and stamped it under his foot.

At Camden, N. J., several big mills employing a thousand hands were idle and 796 families were being cared for by the charity associations.

In Elizabeth, N. J. there have been many strikes, wages have been cut and hundreds of workmen are out of employment.

Canton, Ohio, McKinley's own town has been a heavy sufferer from the effects of contraction. Since January 1 there have been 35 assignments, the liabilities aggregating $438,500. There have also been 55 mortgages foreclosed, aggregating $76,826.07, mostly small debts against the poor.

In Hannu's county, the foreclosures have in that time footed up $1,410,650, and the real estate mortgages recorded in Cuyahoga county amount to $1,585,900. For the whole State the failures are estimated at $500,000, or $10,000,000 a month.

In Chicago there were found 51,000 idle workmen. Times are dull in every branch of business and there have been twelve strikes, three of which are still pending.

At Altoona, Pa., the situation is the worse since the war. The Rolling Mill hands are on a strike on account of a 20 per cent. cut and in many factories the workmen are only working a few hours a day. The same stagnation prevails in trade at Wilkes barre, Carbondale and other manufacturing points.

At Reading, Pa., 1800 puddlers were on a strike on account of a ten per cent. cut in their already reduced wages.

Conditions are worse than they were when McKinley was inaugurated at Alton, Spring Valley, Peoria, Bloomington and other points in Illinois. Many workmen are idle, cuts have everywhere been made in wages and mills are running on short time. There have been several strikes at these points.

In Philadelphia the mills are practically at a standstill and 28,000 workmen are unemployed and 5,000 garment makers are on a strike.

These are but sample reports of the general tale of woe and destitution all over the country.

Here in Kentucky the situation is almost appalling. A gentleman from Louisville, who is in a position to know, told the Kentuckian a few days ago, that the whole city of Louisville was trembling on the verge of bankruptcy. Failure after failure has occurred amongst the biggest establishments of the city and many others are practically insolvent. In every part of the State the same conditions exist. Here in Hopkinsville, said by drummers to be the best town in the State, fifteen vacant business houses, and five failures in one block since the election, speak for themselves.

The only consoling feature about present conditions is that the times now are not as hard as they will be before we get rid of McKinleyism.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proved Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, prepared by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, Etc. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Miss Isabelle Peckins, the Boston belle worth $17,000,000, who was yesterday married to Mr. Larz Anderson, wore a wedding gown thus described:

"It is a gorgeous creation of Worth design, such as could have but few rivals on this side of the water. It is made of heavy white satin of creamy tint, lined throughout with finest mouline tulle. The seams of the trailing skirt are outlined from waist to hem with orange blossoms, and the perfectly fitting corsage is cut in surplus effect and finished with ruffles of diaphanous tulle."

A dress like that must have cost money.

Mr. Chas. M. Meacham, editor of the Hopkinsville Kentuckian, horticulturist and breeder of fine chickens, has commenced publishing a high class poultry journal. It is supposed that his fondness for the old Democratic chicken brought on the poultry fad. At any rate he is authority on such matters and it will pay poultry fanciers to send for a sample of the paper.—Murray Ledger.

The Senate has finished consideration of the sugar schedule of the tariff bill. The House rates of one to two cents a pound according to grades, were not materially changed. By the time the coming season opens the people will probably be enjoying the "prosperity" that high priced sugar will bring.

A complete course of instruction in Book-keeping and modern business methods by mail free of tuition. The American Business College, Omaha, Neb.

The Rev. J. F. Story has made a success of raising strawberries. He has a farm about a mile and a half southwest of town, and a few years since he turned his attention to fruit raising. He has hundreds of trees of all kinds and these have been selected with great care. For several years Mr. Story had been engaged in selling fruit trees for a good nursery. While at this he studied fruit growing and concluded to put into practice his knowledge. He has one of the finest, if not the very finest, orchards in this portion of the State. His trees are just beginning to bear well and now he is reaping the harvest that he has been looking forward to for several years. He has three and a half acres planted in strawberries and the crop this year has been an immense one. In a talk with Mr. Story a few days since he said that up to that time that he had gathered and sold over 1,500 gallons of the berries and that the whole crop would amount to over 2,200 gallons. This will bring in the net sum of about $600, which after paying expenses, will net him something like $400 for profit on this one crop alone. It will be but a short time until his other berries will come into the market, and then very soon the peaches, pears and apples will be on the market. Mr. Story has his farm now in a condition that it will make him an easy and comfortable living. The great wonder is that more people do not go into the fruit raising business. There is no danger that the business will ever be overdone. Good fruit always demands a good price.—Madisonville Hustler.

Strawberry Industry.

W. N. Bard, of Bardwell, gives the Star the following figures on his seven-acre crop of strawberries: Amount of gross sales, $1,202; freight and commission, $230.81; cost of cases, $82; cost of picking, $259.87; total amount paid out, $582.25; cases shipped, subtracting from the gross sales, $1,302, leaves $79.63 as the net proceeds or profit of one crop of berries raised on seven acres of land. He, too, says his berries were fine in quality, but short in quantity, there being but little more than a half a crop. This, however, is about $100 per acre that he has realized clear of all expenses, besides giving employment to numbers of women and children who would be employed at nothing else, but who can make from one to two dollars a day picking berries. Mr. L. T. Jennings also gives us a statement of the proceeds of his crop. The total cost subtracted from $613, the amount received, leaves a clear profit of $357.50 on two acres of land.—Mayfield Mirror.

THE INJURED MAMMOTH.

The Harman & Bailey Elephant is Doing Very Nicely.

The eighteen-month-old elephant that broke its leg while the Harman & Bailey show was here last Friday week continues to be the center of attraction in the animal line, large crowds calling to see it every day. It has been found necessary to place a lock on the door to keep the over-curious out. The elephant is getting along nicely.

How much the management of the great Harman & Bailey show think of this intelligent native of India Dr. Stanton receives a telegram daily from Mr. J. A. Bary, the proprietor of the show, asking the condition of the elephant and giving the route of the show, so that any letter or instructions Dr. Stanton may desire to forward may safely reach their destination.

Saturday three telegrams were received from Mr. Bary concerning the elephant, this being a record breaker.

Owing to the extreme youthfulness of the elephant, she being a mere baby, it has been found impossible to keep her in a sling, and she has to be lowered to the ground very carefully every night. The broken limb is placed in a swing, and the trainer sleeps beside her, and is in constant attendance. During the night he has a shaded lantern to give assistance if any is needed at any hour.

To give some idea of the variety of patients handled by an up-to-date veterinarian, during the last week Dr. Stanton was called upon to attend three animals with broken limbs—a cow belonging to J. J. Kendrick on May 27th, Barnum & Bailey's elephant on the 28th, and W. F. Hambaugh's $500 Jack on the 3rd of June. Each of these animals had its left hind leg broken.

From the above it will appear that the left hind legs of animals with the possible exception of the rabbit, are attended with bad luck in regard to receiving fractures.

While the three cases mentioned in this article were difficult and necessitated skill to operate upon, this does not approach the case coming under Dr. Stanton's care some time ago, when a hyena belonging to the circus of Sells & Renfrow, who were exhibiting in this city, broke one of its hind legs while doing a stunt.

The Doctor had to enter the cage after the fierce animal had been lassoed and tie it himself, then he placed a plaster of paris cast around the fractured leg and remained in the cage over half an hour until the cast set.

This was the most dangerous experience ever undergone by a veterinarian, so far as reported by the press, and this feat of veterinary work has been the subject of many of the best papers of the United States. Mr. J. A. Bailey, of the Barnum & Bailey show, desires to tie to be the most daring piece of surgery ever attempted by a veterinarian.—(Clarkeville Leaf Chronicle.)

ENGLISH CAPITOL.

A Foreign Syndicate Acquires Many Coal Mines.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 9.—The deal now on for the coal lands in East Tennessee and Southern Kentucky surpasses in magnitude the estimate put out yesterday. Facts developed to-day show that the English syndicate has options on all the coal mines, both large and small, in East Tennessee and Southern Kentucky, and that the amount of money involved will be between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000. The deal is by far the largest ever made for property in this section and compares favorably with any ever made in the United States.

The effect of the deal will be to put the coal business of this entire section into the hands of one of the largest companies of the kind ever organized. The Coal Creek and Jellico mines, which it was thought might not be acquired until later, are in the deal from the start, and the only mine of consequence left to compete with the syndicate will be the State mine at Bushy Mountain.

It was agreed that the present trouble between miners and operators caused by a scarcity of funds and the low price of coal, could not occur under the English ownership, and that the men who do the work will be greatly benefited by the change.

It is believed that the new company will have all the mines in operation by next fall, and will be ready for the winter business. It is probable that the headquarters of the big company may come to Chattanooga.

WAS A DASHING RAIDER.

Col John S. Mosby, the Romantic Southern Guerrilla.

He is Now Seriously Ill at Richmond, Va. — A Brief Outline of His More Than Fearful War Career.

Few men in the confederate army were more conspicuous or interesting than Col. Mosby. As a dashing raider he was unsurpassed, even among the boldest of the raiders of the southern guerrillas. He was born in Powhatan county, Va., December 6, 1833. He entered the University of Virginia, but before completing his course shot and wounded a fellow student who had insulted him. He was sentenced to a fine and imprisonment, but was pardoned. He studied law while in jail, and was soon afterward admitted to the bar. At the beginning of the war he enlisted in a company of cavalry, and served in the campaign of the Shenandoah under Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, and maintained the picket on the Potomac during the winter of 1862-3.

In February, 1862, he was made adjutant of his regiment, but shortly afterward returned to the ranks. He then served as a scout at Gen. Stuart's headquarters, and guided that officer on a bold raid on the rear of Gen. McClellan's position on the Chickahominy. In January, 1863, he crossed the Rappahannock into northern Virginia, which had been abandoned the year before to the federal forces, and recruited a force of irregular cavalry, with which he harassed the federal outposts, cutting communications and destroying supplies. Several expeditions were sent out to capture him and his men, but when they found themselves too hard pressed they disbanded and scattered to their homes, resembling when the pursuit was abandoned at a pre-arranged rendezvous. He evaded every encounter unless certain of victory.

His soldiers were of a nondescript sort, composed of deserters from the federal army, outlaws and adventurers, who were soldiers merely for the sake of the booty they might obtain.

At Chantilly on the 11th of March, 1863, he made an unexpected counter-

COL. JOHN S. MOSBY.
(The Most Daring Raider of the War)

charge on the federal force, routing a much larger army than his own at Dranesville on the 1st of April, 1863, he routed a large detachment sent expressly to capture him. While the main army was engaged at Chantilly he surprised a party of cavalry at Warrenton Junction, but was subsequently routed. He raised a new force and went to the rear of Hooker's army, wrecked a railroad train, was surrounded, but cut his way through, inflicting great damage. In May, 1864, Mosby captured a railroad transport near Aquia creek, compelling Gen. Grant, then engaged in fighting the battle of the Wilderness, to detach a large force to dislodge him and protect his communications.

He was successively promoted through the various grades to the rank of brigadier general and was several times wounded. By a special act of the confederate congress his men were permitted to retain all spoils of war taken by them, besides receiving the regular pay of cavalrymen.

At the close of the war Mosby went to Warren, Va., and took up the practice of law. He was there in 1865 when the Greeley-Grant campaign came, and the incorrigible rebel guerrilla amazed his friends and competitors of the south by holding his stand for Grant instead of the democrat. He had done it once before when he supported Grant as a reconstruction president, but this time he came out flatly as a republican.

He supported Hayes in 1876 and was rewarded with the consulship at Hong Kong. He was a proud man and excessively sensitive to those trying times and twice refused to accept office under President Grant.

On his return from China he settled in California and has done well there as a lawyer. As a soldier he was a terrible disciplinarian and as a lawyer shrewd reader of statutes, though not a brilliant pleader.

One for the Archibishop. A young add-up-camp at a party in Dublin castle once approached Archibishop Whitley and asked: "Does your grace know what is the difference between an ass and an archbishop?" "No," was the grave answer. Then the youth went on: "An ass has a cross on his back, but an archbishop has a cross on his breast." "Very good," said the archbishop. "Now, will you tell me what is the difference between a young add-up-camp, like yourself, and an ass?" "I don't know," said the youth. "Neither do I," said the archbishop, and walked away.

Cradle That Rocks itself. A newly-patented cradle rocks itself by means of a clock-work mechanism, a rod running from a slowly-revolving wheel to the upper part of the cradle to rock it back and forth, the rod being adjusted to rock it fast or slow.

Your Intelligence.

Your intelligence is questioned by the druggist who tries to influence you to let him bottle anything for you when you ask for Dr. Bell's Pine Tree Honey. No druggist can put this up for you—he cannot put anything in it. It is not to be had in bulk—it is to be had only in 2c, 5c and 5c bottles. There is nothing just as good as Dr. Bell's Pine Tree Honey. Avoid the substitutes with similar sounding names. WILLIAM J. DEBOE.

Kentucky's New Senator to a Powerful Political Organizer. W. J. Deboe, the newly-elected United States senator from Kentucky, was born in Crittenden county 47 years ago, was raised on a farm and educated in the common schools of his county, supplemented by two years in Ewing college, in Illinois. His parents were born in Virginia, and went to Kentucky early in this century. His grandfather on his father's side served for seven years in the revolutionary war. His father, Abram Deboe, was a minister of the Baptist church. After that it was the young Deboe first taught school and afterwards studied medicine and graduated at the University Medical college, Louisville. He practiced medicine for a number of years, and then took up the law, which

WILLIAM J. DEBOE.

(United States Senator from Kentucky) has practiced successfully for nine years. He has always been an ardent and active republican, and few men in the state have done more than he for his party. In 1888 he was a delegate to the Chicago convention. In 1892 he made the race for congress in his district as the republican nominee, and greatly reduced the democratic majority.

He has been a member of the state central committee since 1890, and in 1896 was elected from the state at large to the St. Louis convention which nominated McKinley and Hobart, and was chairman of the Kentucky delegation to that convention. In 1892 he was elected to the state senate from a democratic district, and has served his people during the last three terms ably and faithfully. As a political organizer and leader of men, he is second to none in the state, as evidenced by the magnitude of his own campaigns and as member of the executive committee of the state last year during the McKinley campaign. The fact that Kentucky is now in the republican column is largely due to his part in the management of the state campaign of 1896 and 1898. He is a man of unblemished character and reputation, moral and temperate, and is a member of the Presbyterian church. He stands six feet one inch high and weighs 215 pounds.

The election of Deboe does not change the political complexion of the senate, but on some party questions might give the republicans a majority if Senator Kyle, of South Dakota, votes with them, together with the vote of the vice president. The election of Deboe means the total membership of the senate, as composed of 43 republicans, 33 democrats and 12 populists and silver republicans. With Kyle the republicans would have 44, a tie, with the vice president a majority of one.

WILLIAM A. JONES.

(New Commissioner of Indian Affairs) the present time is vice president of the First national bank of his home city. He was one of the incorporators of the Mineral Point Zinc company, in 1883, and since that time has been identified with the interests of that company as secretary and as treasurer. He has been mayor of the city and a member of the board of regents of the state university. In 1894 Mr. Jones was elected a member of the legislature of Wisconsin, and was reelected in 1896 by the largest majority ever given for a candidate for the legislature in his county. Mr. Jones is a native of Wales, and is 53 years old. As a lad of seven he came to America and settled with his parents in this state. After passing through the common school he entered the state normal school and qualified for a teacher's place. He was afterward principal of the city school of Mineral Point, and filled that position ably for several years. In 1877 he was elected superintendent of public schools for Iowa county, and re-elected at the expiration of his term. Then he studied law and was admitted to the bar, but abandoned the law for the more profitable pursuit of banking. He was married in 1881 to Miss Sarah A. Amley.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper treatment, the pleasure of life is more fully directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, and all other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be consumed to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the widest reputation everywhere. Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

CORNER STONE OF HEALTH.

Effect of Paine's Celery Compound Upon the Blood and Nerves.

Now is the season to lay the foundation for future health and strength.

The corner stones of good health are complete digestion, sound sleep, pure blood and a perfectly nourished nervous system. The wonderful success of Paine's celery compound in making people well and keeping them so, has always been accounted for by physicians by its extraordinary power of nourishing and regulating all of these functions.

It is not strange that so many unscientific remedies do no permanent good when they disregard this close interdependence of the nerves and the organs of digestion and circulation, and attend to but one deranged part at the expense of all the rest.

The only possible way that a real lasting gain in strength and vitality can come is through pure blood, better nourished nerves and stronger, more refreshing sleep and an economy in the expenditure of nerve force.

These are the objective points aimed at and attained by Paine's celery compound. This remarkable remedy permanently cures every form of nervous debility, neurasthenia, sleeplessness, melancholy, hysteria, headache, dyspepsia and heart palpitation. Primarily the nerves, and then every organ governed by them is induced to work in a normal and orderly manner.

Mothers should give their children Paine's celery compound now it is spring. Instead of some brainy blood purifier that can have no power of correcting an impure state of the body or the brain and nerves. Debility and disease are cured by Paine's celery compound. It is not the power of any other remedy to make people feel so well and so completely well as this astonishing nerve and brain strengthener and restorer and blood purifier. Paine's celery compound. One needs simply to give it a trial to be satisfied.
